Melinda Elam - I am a homeschool mom to my one child, a daughter named Cassidy. She will be 12 years old in the fall of 2013. I have homeschooled her since kindergarten. But that is not where my passion for teaching children started. I grew up the 3rd of 7 children in my family, so there were always little ones around. I began babysitting at 9 years old. I learned alot about patience and thinking on your feet. You have to be creative to keep childrens attention often times. I believe God loves to see our children grow and learn and I love to facilitate that growth in all areas of school and play!

IPEHS P.E. Homeschool Style

Lisa Emmick - is beginning her seventeenth year of teaching students of all ages to play the piano and flute and love it! 2013-14 will be Mrs. Emmick's fifth year of teaching at ARCHE. Her goal is for students to not only learn their instrument, but for them to gain an enthusiastic appreciation and love of music that lasts a lifetime, with a teaching style that is individualized, positive and nurturing. Her music training began in her mother's home studio where she studied piano for twelve years. In addition, she studied flute privately for ten years with the soloist of the Dallas Symphony. She has performed on numerous stages including the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant, churches, music revues, oprys, festivals, community events, weddings and solo recitals. She graduated with a BBA from SMU and has two children who love music too!

Cindi Garrett - Cindi Garrett earned a B.S. degree in Speech from the University of Texas at Austin. While home schooling her four children (two of whom are in college now) for the past 16 years and counting, she strives to develop in them a joy for learning and enjoys learning right along with them! She's especially passionate about literature, writing and history and about bringing God's Word into everything she teaches. After teaching at three co-ops in the past, she and her children now love growing and learning at the ARCHE co-op. This will be her family's seventh year participating in ARCHE co-op classes, and her sixth year teaching at the ARCHE co-op. As a telling sign of a true home school mom, Cindi absolutely loves teaching children of all ages and discovering their precious unique qualities while enabling them to develop knowledge, self-confidence and a love for learning! She's been happily married to Jeff, a full-time pastor, for the past 24 years.

Kristin Landrum - A recent graduate from the John Brown University General Music: Piano program, I am passionate about my craft. I have had the opportunity to study under Linda Beckman, co-author of Klav-Ear for Kids, and Paul Whitley, an incredible collaborative pianist who has studied with the likes of Alan Chow. Through my experiences I have grown passionate about developing musicianship skills and healthy technique in my students. The word technique may bring up, for many, visions of five-finger drills and other tedious exercises. When I use the word I mean a healthy and positive manner of playing that equips a pianist to enjoy their art for a lifetime. My goal is to allow students to learn to play the piano so that they can enjoy the music they make and also prevent piano-related injuries such as carpal tunnel, nerve damage, and tendonitis. I have been classically trained for over twelve years and love teaching students of all ages and abilities. Lessons include technique, performance, theory, and a lot of fun.
